

THE MORNING APPEAL.

WEDNESDAY.....JUNE 5

ASSASSINATED.

The Captain-General of Madrid Shot.

Madrid, June 3. General Primo Rivera, Captain-General of Madrid, was assassinated this morning by an officer in the infantry, Major Clavijo.

There does not seem to have been any cause for the murderous deed and it is generally believed that the assassin is crazy.

About 11 o'clock this forenoon Major Clavijo walked into the office of General Primo Rivera. There was nothing in his appearance to indicate that he was excited. He approached the Captain-General and made his usual salute. Then as he dropped his hand from his cap he quickly drew a revolver, and, without uttering a word, pointed it at General Primo Rivera, and before any one could prevent, he fired two bullets into the General's body. Both of them struck him in the chest, and either would have made a mortal wound.

General Primo Rivera, as the last bullet struck him, reeled and fell to the floor. The assassin not yet satisfied with his work, was on the point of firing once more at his prostrate victim, when General Aymerich succeeded in reaching him and struck him down with a blow of his sword. Before he could recover himself the guard had been called, and he was overpowered and removed to prison.

Doctors were at once summoned to attend the wounded man, but they could do nothing toward saving his life.

The last sacrament was at once administered to General Primo Rivera. All the Cabinet ministers called to enquire as to his condition.

Major Clavijo, it is learned, had been confined in the military hospital for some time with symptoms of dementia.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons to Fight

New York, June 3.—Dan Stewart of Dallas, Texas, is here as a representative of a syndicate of Dallas men and fortified with a certificate check for $41,000 to make arrangements to have the proposed Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight pulled off in Dallas. He left his hotel to-day in search of information, and called at Corbett's manager's office but did not succeed in finding Brady. Stewart returned to the hotel shortly after noon, and when seen by a reporter of the Associated Press, said he had made an appointment to meet Joe Vendig, representative of the Florida Athletic Club.

In reply to questions regarding the possibilities of the event being fought successfully in the lone star State, Mr. Stewart said: "There is no doubt about bringing the fight off."

Prof Woods Concert

Professor Wood gives his concert at Odd Fellows Hall this evening. Miss Jacobs will act as accompanist. The Yolo Mail has the following regarding his work:

The concert given at the opera house by Prof J. M. Wood, proved to be an excellent musical treat to those who attended. The Professor's rendition of the many excellent musical selections show him to be very skillful on the violin and guitar. The frequent applause which greeted him was a fine testimonial of the appreciation of his audience.

A WOMAN'S VENGEANCE.

FLO STEWART CHARGES WM. PICKLER WITH STEALING BULLION.

Officers and Attorneys Search the Premises.

Yesterday morning Flo Stewart called on attorneys Woodburn and Coffin and stated that she could reveal the whereabouts of some of the bullion stolen from the mint.

She said that Wm. Pickler an employee of the mint with whom she had been living had taken the bullion at different times and secreted it in the stable in the rear of a house in the southern end of town.

A search warrant was sworn to by her and Coffin. Ulrich and officer Patterson went to the house and made a search for the stuff. They turned the house upside down and searched the trunks very thoroughly and Pickler made no objection, in fact he assisted them.

They had been told by Miss Stewart that the bullion was buried in the stable, and this was the last place they went to.

THE STUFF UNEARTHED.

When the shed where the horse had been kept was reached, Ulrich took a hoe and began turning over the litter. He soon reached some retorted amalgam and remarked, "Here is the stuff."

Pickler was in the house at the time with the boy. Constable Patterson went into the house and asked him to give bonds to keep the peace. Miss Stewart had sworn out a complaint that he had threatened her life, and Judge Hawthorne had placed him under bonds to keep the peace.

WHY MISS STEWART TOLD.

Last Saturday Pickler and the woman had some trouble over a boy about seven years of age which they had adopted, and she took it to a ranch near the city to keep it from him. He found where the boy was and took it away.

In the evening the two met at No. 1 and had words. She claims that he struck her and she swore out a warrant charging him with assault. She stated to several parties that evening, that she would send Pickler to the penitentiary and fight him to the bitter end. In carrying out her threat she conveyed the information first to William Woodburn, who at first declined to take any stock in her story, as it sounded like a revengeful woman getting even. She described the bullion so accurately, however, and used expressions which led Woodburn to think that Pickler had talked to her about it, and used the slang of the melting room. He then told Coffin and this led to the search.

THE WOMAN'S STORY

Miss Stewart was interviewed about 2 o'clock by the APPEAL reporter, and told her story as follows:

"I have lived with Pickler nine years, and been true to him, but his treatment of me has been unbearable, and after he gave me a beating I told him I would even up the score."

He has been taking bullion from the Mint in small chunks ever since Garrard's administration. He would bring it home two or three times a week, and put it in the closet. He put some in the stable and it is buried there now. It was there two weeks ago and is there now if he has not changed the place where he put it. Judge Black who was in the house knows it also. They'll find it, make no mistake; as soon as they reach the stable they will find it. About three years ago his brother came to Carson and took away about a thousand dollars worth in a canvass sack to San Francisco where he sold it. The detectives can easily find that out if they go there and investigate. I never lied in my life and my word will prove good. I have done my duty in telling of this and I know I will be vindicated.

Last evening U. S. Attorney Jones arrived, and proceeded to investigate the matter. The warrant for the arrest will probably be issued to-day. Meanwhile it was rumored last evening that a fresh surprise would be sprung on the community to-day. The friends of Mr. Pickler say that he can show that his brother sent the bullion, that Miss Stewart knew it, and that she has been used as a tool by other parties to complicate the case.

Mr. Wm. F. Wentworth as a humorous and dramatic reader and impersonator, is a great success. This is what the Ohio press thinks of the artist who will give one of his entertaining recitals at the Guild Hall, Episcopal Church, on Friday evening next.

It is stated that the Comstock Council, A. P. A., has a total membership of 500, with 39 to be initiated at the regular meeting next Thursday evening.

THE VAUGHAN TRIAL.

Abrupt Stoppage of Proceeding—A Juror Arrested and Held to Answer Before the Grand Jury for Perjury.

Yesterday the APPEAL published an item relative to the developments in the Vaughan trial. Oscar Hildibrant furnishes the following additional particulars:

AUSTIN, Nev., June 1, 1895.

Sensational development which marks the Vaughan murder trial as the most extraordinary in the criminal annals of this State occurred to-day and if it does not result in a miscarriage of justice it will certainly add an extra expense of $2000 to the already over-burdened county of Lander. It also necessitated the postponement of the case to Wednesday, the 6th, of June.

Yesterday afternoon District Attorney Jones and his associate, D. S. Truman, received information to the effect that juror A. A. Flint was not a proper person to sit on the trial. When they had become satisfied, they notified Judge Mack of their discovery.

When Court convened at 10 a. m. the District Attorney stated the case, whereupon Jas. Kessler, Edward Dunham and Joseph Moss were called to the stand.

They said had been residents of the town for over 30 years; that some five months ago in Harry King's saloon, they and A. A. Flint, with many others, had a heated discussion on the merits of Vaughan case, in the course of which A. A. Flint, repeatedly asserted his belief in the guilt of Alfred Vaughan, but in case of his being accepted as a juror he would certainly acquit the defendant, no matter how pointed the evidence against the latter might be, because he was opposed to capital punishment.

Flint himself cross examined these three men without being able to alter their testimony one iota. District Attorney Jones was put on the stand in regard to his source of information. Attorney Dennis followed, and the statement was elicited from him that he himself was informed of Flint's disqualification. Cross examined by the latter as to the names of his informers Dennis declined to answer and was sustained by the Court, but subsequently answered Flint's next question, that only one man had spoken to him. After arguments pro and con, Judge Mack summarily ordered Flint out of the panel, at the same time commanding the clerk to take his name from the jury box for being a totally unfit person to ever serve as a juror again.

With the usual admonition the jury was then given in charge of two newly sworn deputy sheriffs, while Sheriff Wm. Eason himself was ordered for the third time to return a new venire by Wednesday.

It is impossible to foretell the outcome of this trial, as a strong rumor is rife to the effect that there is another juror in the box similarly disqualified. At the afternoon session of Court A. A. Flint was held to answer before the committing magistrate in $500 bail for the crime of perjury. A bond in the above sum was furnished with B. Scinchetti and Harry King as securities.
